1. On 5 December 1950 soldiers of a Rumanian Air Force unit were quartered in a barracks building which belonged to the Turda de Sus (SR 08) airfield. It was believed that most of the unit was quartered on the field. Since only a few air force soldiers were seen, the unit has obviously been decreased. *

* [redacted] Comment. For layout sketch of barracks buildings, see Annex. The report confirms previous information that part of the air force unit is stationed at the field and part in the barracks on the southern perimeter of the town. Only a wooden barracks building for [redacted] was at the field. The source's belief that the bulk of the unit is quartered at the airfield would be correct only if the necessary buildings were available. This, however, has not been reported. There are no indications supporting the assumption that the personnel were reduced. According to the last observations, a Rumanian Air Force regiment, presumably equipped with twin-engine fighters, is stationed in Turda.

1 Annex. Layout sketch of barracks buildings at the southern perimeter of Turda.
